EY case puts spotlight on white-collar labour laws

Decades-old laws largely focused on blue-collar workers

SHIVAM PATEL
New Delhi, December 11

AUTHORITIES IN TWO states — Maharashtra and Karnataka — are drafting tighter workplace rules and inspections to protect white-collar employees following the death of a young executive at global consultancy Ernst & Young (EY), which her family blamed on overwork.

The country's decades-old labour laws are largely focused on blue-collar workers, leaving others vulnerable to workplace abuse, unions say.

Labour authorities in Maharashtra and Karnataka said they have stepped up scrutiny of office practices at private firms in an effort to protect white-collar workers after a string of complaints, four officials in the two states told Reuters. Hundreds of strategic centres of global firms are in Mumbai and Bengaluru.

The Maharashtra government is considering a proposal by labour authorities to regulate hiring and layoff practices at firms through a new law or guidelines that would cover all

STATE OF THE MATTER

MAHARASHTRA

■ May consider proposal to regulate hiring and layoff practices at firms

■ New law or guidelines would cover all corporate workers, including managerial staff

■ It would be implemented after clearance from the state cabinet

KARNATAKA

■ Makes inspections more frequent to verify legal compliance by firms

■ Looking at overtime rules and maintenance of time logs 'in the wake of overwork complaints'

NEED FOR NEW LAWS

■ ILO says blue-collar workers get most protection in India and South Asian countries

■ Lawmakers have also spoken about the need to introduce stricter laws to protect corporate workers

■ Unions in the services sector have lobbied for such measures for some time now

EY CASE

■ Talks gained momentum after the death of an EY employee in July

■ Allegations of workload, odd and long working hours and lack of managerial support

Asian countries, many forms of protection in terms of labour rights are given to blue-collar workers only," Elena Gerasimova, labour law and standards specialist at the International Labour Organization (ILO), said. "From the ILO perspective, the rights shall be given to both blue and white collar, and to managerial workers as well," she added in her emailed comments.

In recent months, lawmakers have also spoken about the need to introduce stricter laws to protect corporate workers from exploitation.

Unions in the services sector have lobbied for such measures for some time now, but officials said it gained momentum because of the charges of exploitation at EY, following the July death of Anna Sebastian Perayil, a 26-year-old audit executive who worked at the firm's office in Pune near Mumbai. The labour ministry opened a probe into the allegations. EY has said it places "highest importance" on the wellbeing of all workers and was taking correspondence from Perayil's family with "utmost seriousness".

EY and labour authorities in Mumbai did not respond to requests for comment on the case.

corporate workers, including managerial staff, two state officials said, requesting anonymity. It would be implemented after clearance from the state cabinet, the officials said.

In Bengaluru, two officials said the labour department has made inspections more frequent to verify legal compliance by firms of overtime rules and maintenance of time logs "in the wake of overwork complaints".

US hotels welcome Indian tourists with chai, samosa

AISHWARYA JAIN
Bengaluru, December 11

US HOTELS AND travel companies are aiming to tap a surge in Indian tourists to boost revenue as domestic leisure spending falters and demand from East Asian countries remains below pre-pandemic levels. Nearly 1.9 million Indian tourists visited the US in the first ten months of 2024, a nearly 48% rise from 2019, a data from the US National Trade and Tourism Office (NTTO) showed. This was driven by a 50% jump in visas issued for business visits and 43.5% rise for leisure, data showed.

The expanding middle-class population, higher travel budgets and increased flight capacity are also behind the India's international travel boom. In contrast, visitor volumes from China, Japan and South Korea dropped 44.5%, 50.8% and 23.9% during the same period,

50% jump in visas issued for business visits by Indians

43.5% rise for leisure visits by Indians

42.3% increase in flight capacity between India and the US versus 2019

China, Japan and South Korea volumes drop 44.5%, 50.8% and 23.9% compared with 2019 levels, NTTO data showed.

"Indian travellers are stepping up to fill part of the gap left by lower visitation from China, Japan and South Korea," said Laura Lee Blake, CEO, Asian American Hotel Owners Association, members of which own 60% of the hotels in the US.

"Their interest in exploring smaller cities and secondary markets is helping to spread the recovery across a broader range of destinations," she said. Some properties are also introducing details that may resonate with Indians — from chai and samosas in the lobby to popular Indian TV channels in the guest rooms, she said.

Travel firm Viator has said US bookings made by Indian travellers jumped over 50% in 2024 and have tripled from pre-pandemic levels in 2019. Scheduled flight capacity between India and the US rose 42.3% in 2024 versus 2019, showed data from OAG Aviation.

Why international stars are pulling out of Hockey India League en masse

MIHIR VASAYDA
Mumbai, December 11

IN OCTOBER, WHEN the Hockey India League (HIL) player auctions were held, 96 international stars were snapped up by eight men and four women franchises. Now, with a fortnight left for the competition to begin, more than one-fourth of them have pulled out.

The reasons? The timing of the league, which begins on December 28 (days after Christmas and just before the New Year); an unattractive salary, which is less than many Indian players; and the prospect of spending over a month in Rourkela where there aren't many options to unwind after matches.

So far, 18 men's players, primarily from the Netherlands and Germany, have pulled out. Additionally, seven women players have withdrawn as well. These players pulled out after the auctions took place, leaving Hockey India red-faced. The national governing body is likely to bar all the players — apart from those with legitimate fitness concerns and have provided a medical certificate — from playing for three years until the next auction.

In most cases, the teams found other international players willing to replace those who have withdrawn. It may soften the blow but top stars pulling out from the tournament will take away some sheen when it gets underway in Rourkela (men) and Ranchi (women).

The no-show by some of world hockey's biggest names is

THE NO-SHOW

96 international stars were snapped up by eight men and four women franchises in October auction

7 women players have pulled out

■ Big names among male players to pull out include Paris Olympics gold medalist Seve van Ass and Pirmin Blaak

■ Female players include Dutch Olympic champion Xan de Waard and Germany's Nike Lorenz

The reasons

■ HIL begins on December 28 — days after Christmas and just before the New Year

■ Unattractive salary, which is less than many Indian players

■ The prospect of spending over a month in Rourkela

a sharp reversal from the earlier renditions of the HIL when the league was scheduled and marketed around the top foreign players who were also paid handsomely. This time around, the tables have turned. With a strict salary cap of ₹4 crore for the men and ₹2 crore for women, the franchises opted to go big with the Indians.

Germany's Christopher Ruhr, who was the costliest foreigner in 2016 after being coach — for ₹10 lakh.

Seve Van Ass said the wages were not as lucrative as before. "I think the money is mostly going to Indian players, which is a difference compared to the previous editions. For some top players still a lot of money has been handed out," he said. "However, it does not make it as lucrative as before and I wonder if top players are willing to risk their international career, or at least miss international matches, for the current salary purse."

Hockey India secretary general Bhola Nath Singh said this reflects the changing times in Indian — and world — hockey. "After back-to-back Olympic medals, the franchises have chosen to send more money on Indian players compared to the foreigners."

Other big names to pull out include Paris Olympics gold medalists Pirmin Blaak and Jonas de Geus of the Netherlands, Ruhr's Germany teammate Jean Paul Danneberg, Australia's Flynn Ogilvie and Belgium's Tom Boon.

A team official said: "The international players say they were told that the HIL would take place in January. Later, they were told to arrive around Christmas as the first match is on December 28. They were not willing to sacrifice the end of the year holidays."

Van Ass said the decision to shift the dates was a 'big reason' for him to pull out.
